

HELPING YOUR STUDENTS BECOME PROFICIENT READERS AND “LOVING TO READ”

OBJECTIVE: Participants will: Understand the research of why it is imperative that children read every day at home and in all classes and grade levels in school. Learn and be given strategies, tips, and activities to motivate students and children to read, including those with reading disabilities. Have demonstrated four active reading strategies that teachers/parents may use with their students and children to actively engage their minds to assist them in raising their reading levels and become more proficient readers and how to actively study based on brain research information on memorization and use of graphic organizers. Give all glory to HIM for allowing us to be instruments of HIS peace.
